Postoffice Receipts Set Record

1936 BUSINESS MAY PASS ALL PREVIOUS YEARS

Higher Rating Looms For Hays and Aides As
Stamp Sale Grows

LAST QUARTER SETS MARK

Official Seeking Better
Service For City

Indications showed Tuesday that 1936 will be the greatest year in the history of the Circleville postoffice. Postmaster A. Hulse Hays made the encouraging prediction after he checked postal receipts for all years since 1918.

If business continues its present trend, and Mr. Hays sees no reason why it should not, the postoffice will soon be in First Class instead of its present rating of Second Class. A volume of $40,000 in business is necessary before an office can go into First Class. The 1935 calendar year yielded $31,593.15. In 1936 that figure will be considerably higher. Mr. Hays believes in less than two years the office will be "promoted."

Quarter Best in History

The September quarter, which included July, August and September, showed business, which includes stamp sales, etc., to reach $7,326.25 compared with $7,276.97 for the September quarter of 1935, considered the peak year of the "prosperity" era. The September quarter in 1918, during the closing days of the war, yielded $6,835.93.

Business for 1936 is running ahead of each of the last three years. An increase of 4.4 percent was noted in 1935 over 1934. Receipts in October totaled $3,192.34, a gain of $487.60 over 1929, while October, 1918, produced $2,768.50. Other figures produced by the postmaster showed October, 1935, $2,530.78; October, 1934, $2,671.30; October, 1933, $2,554.13, and October, 1932, $2,556.32.

Mr. Hays is using much effort in endeavoring to improve the postal service between Circleville, Columbus and other points. He expects action on a petition in a short time.

Chaplin Refuses to Talk

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Charles Chaplin refused to discuss reports published today that he and his leading lady, Paulette Goddard, have been married secretly for more than a year. "I have nothing to say," was his laconic reply to all queries. The latest report that the comedian was married came from Randolph Churchill, son of Winston Churchill, who was quoted as asserting that he could "definitely say that they are married."

ELECTRICIAN, 25, LIVES THOUGH GREAT CHARGE PASSES THROUGH BODY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Ernest Haglund, 25-year-old electrician's helper felt almost normal today and hospital attaches considered him a rare specimen—a man who should have died but didn't.

Apparently unharmed except for two burns Haglund survived an electric shock of between 55,000 and 70,000 volts from wires carrying a current of from 40 to 70 amperes.

The Bellevue hospital staff was unusually interested because the amount of electricity that shot through his body when he became tangled in wires at a New York Edison company plant was far greater than the amount used in the Sing Sing prison death house.

More Than 100,000 Watch
on Licking Farm

ALVA OYLER'S FARM, LICKING COUNTY, Ohio, Nov. 10.—(UP)—A crowd estimated from 100,000 to 135,000 was present shortly after noon Tuesday when the 13th annual corn husking contest started. The championship of the nation was at stake as 18 young farmers started to husk 18 rows of fine Ohio corn.

Five minutes after noon, the official on the front porch of the Oyler home fired the "go" bomb, and the athletes, any one of whom could spot a swarm of locusts a half hour start in a corn field and out-devastate them, blazed down the rows, fighting for the $200 prize money, the gold cup, and the right to the mythical "corn belt" for the coming year.

Each husker will work 80 minutes after which much more time will be required to weigh and check the corn.

The betting favorite is Carl Carlson, Iowa champion, and brother of Elmer, world's champion. The record, established by Elmer Carlson last year, is 41.25 bushels.

Representing Ohio were Richard Mitchell and John Van Zandt.

At the White House it was explained that the conference was called at the state department's request as that department has responsibility for issuance of permits covering munitions exports.

OFFICERS GRILL KIWANIS CLUB TWO WOMEN IN PLANS FOOTBALL THEFT CHARGES BANQUET NOV. 23

Two Jackson, O., women were being held in the county jail Tuesday on shoplifting charges while police of Circleville and Chillicothe conducted an investigation at Jackson to determine if they were connected with thefts in any other cities.

The women are Clara O'Neill, 23, and Othella Smales, 22. They were arrested Monday afternoon by Officers Fred Fitzpatrick on W. Main street.

Fitzpatrick said he was called by Wallace Crist, Mr. Crist told the officer a dress had been dropped on the floor in his store and it aroused suspicion.

The officer said the women then visited the J. C. Penney store and after leaving stopped in Parrett's clothing store to obtain a sack. They were arrested when they went into a stairway near Joseph's store.

Charges against the women were filed by I. W. Kinsey, manager of the Penney store. They were accused of taking a dress valued at $4.98.

William McCrady, chief of police, Wallace Crist, and Ben Rout, Chillicothe police chief, went to Jackson to conduct the investigation. Police believe the women may be connected with the disappearance of two dresses last Saturday from the Crist department store.

TUESDAY FINAL DAY FOR STATE TAX ON FOODS

Numerous Items Remain

of Ohio Voters

ARTICLES ARE DEFINED

Loss in Revenue Expected to Reach $12,000,000

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Tomorrow there will be no sales tax on food purchased for home consumption.

The constitutional amendment, passed overwhelmingly by the voters Nov. 3, becomes effective and grocery stores, confectioneries and other retail establishments selling food for consumption off the premises will no longer be compelled to collect the tax on those articles classified as food.

But food, the tax commission explains, is not exactly the same thing as groceries, and certain items commonly purchased at grocery stores do not come within the definition made by the tax commission.

Food Defined

The following articles, for example, are not included in the definition of food: candies, coughdrops, animal food, gum, medicines, chewing or smoking tobacco and synthetic or adulterated fruit juices.

On the other hand these and similar items are considered in the tax commission's definition as food: apple butter, fruit, baking powder, breakfast food, butter, cakes, catsup, cheese, coconut, coffee, condiments, extracts, flour, fruit juices, gelatin, honey, lard and lard substitutes, olives, pickles, preserves, salt, sugar, syrups.

Liberty League Reduces New York Office Staff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(UP)—The American Liberty League has begun materially to reduce its clerical headquarters staff here and conferences were understood to be taking place today in New York regarding the organization's future role in politics.

Shouse and some of the key men who formed the league in August, 1934, as a non-partisan group to "defend and uphold the constitution."

At least 20 stenographers have been dropped from the Washington payroll since the political campaign ended. League officials said some of these were hired for the "rush period" following the organization's famous banquet here last January when Alfred E. Smith began his "walk" away from the Roosevelt administration.

COUNTY TO ERECT COURTHOUSE ADDITION WITH NO NEW TAXES

Sinking Fund to Take Bonds for $20,000 to Provide Local Money for Project

Pickaway county will have an addition to its courthouse. County commissioners Monday evening voted to accept the $23,198 grant from PWA for the addition and arranged a $20,000 bond issue to take care of the county's share of the project.

An adjourned meeting will be held by the board Wednesday to complete arrangements.

The commissioners were informed by the county auditor that $20,000 was their limit on a bond issue without a vote of the people. They learned also that 17 of the 42 districts of the county were up to their limit under the 10-mill limitation and if an additional levy was assessed cuts would have to be taken by some subdivisions in these districts. The auditor estimated the levy at .10 of a mill for five years.

Other Means Talked

Since the tax had already been established and the board must file its resolution of acceptance on the grant before Thursday, other means of taking care of the bond issue, were discussed. Commissioners learned there is sufficient money in the sinking fund to take care of the issue, and income in this fund would be ample for the payments. Trustees of the sinking fund agreed to purchase the bond issue.

The estimated cost of the addition is $51,550 with the county's share approximately $28,000. The board believes the additional $8,000 can be obtained through the general fund. Under this arrangement no change would be made in the tax rate. At the present time the county is paying approximately $800 annually for rent for offices outside the courthouse. All commissioners are in favor of the new addition to be constructed between the courthouse and the new garage building.

TWO KILLED IN CAFE GUN DUEL IN WELLSTON, O.

JACKSON, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Two men fell mortally wounded early today during a gun fight in a Wellston cafe. Two others were wounded, one seriously.

Patrolman Ross Fischer, 57, of Wellston, whose bullets helped bring down Keesee, was in serious condition with wounds in the leg and abdomen. Jess Whaley, 16, Wellston, was wounded in the leg.

The suit is based on a traffic accident last Sept. 18. The petition says Mr. Wheeler was walking north on route 23, about three-fourths of a mile north of South Bloomfield, when he was struck by the defendant's truck, operated by Floyd Cox, Columbus.

The population, after almost 24 hours of shelling and bombardment in which scores were killed and about 200 wounded, tensely awaited the outcome.

In the southwestern, southern and eastern part of the city, in ominous silence prevailed. The cannonading had ceased and the enemy apparently was re-forming the lines for the final assault.

Official Seeking Better
Service For City

Indications showed Tuesday that 1936 will be the greatest year in the history of the Circleville postoffice. Postmaster A. Hulse Hays made the encouraging prediction after he checked postal receipts for all years since 1918.

If business continues its present trend, and Mr. Hays sees no reason why it should not, the postoffice will soon be in First Class instead of its present rating of Second Class. A volume of $40,000 in business is necessary before an office can go into First Class. The 1935 calendar year yielded $31,393.15. In 1936 that figure will be considerably higher. Mr. Hays believes in less than two years the office will be "promoted".

Quarter Best in History

The September quarter, which included July, August and September, showed business, which includes stamp sales, etc., to reach $7,326.25 compared with $7,276.97 for the September quarter of 1935, considered the peak year of the "prosperity" era. The September quarter in 1918, during the closing days of the war, yielded $6,835.93. Business for 1936 is running ahead of each of the last three years. An increase of 4.4 percent was noted in 1935 over 1934.

Receipts in October totaled $3,192.34, a gain of $487.60 over 1929, while October, 1918, produced $2,768.50. Other figures produced by the postmaster showed October, 1935, $2,530.78; October, 1934, $2,671.30; October, 1933, $2,554.13, and October, 1932, $2,356.32.

Mr. Hays is using much effort in endeavoring to improve the postal service between Circleville, Columbus and other points. He expects action on a petition in a short time.

They learned also that 17 of the 42 districts of the county were up to their limit under the 10-mill limitation and if an additional levy was assessed cuts would have to be taken by some subdivisions in these districts. The auditor estimated the levy at .10 of a mill for five years.

Other Means Talked

Since the tax had already been established and the board must file its resolution of acceptance on the grant before Thursday, other means of taking care of the bond issue, were discussed.

Commissioners learned there is sufficient money in the sinking fund to take care of the issue, and income in this fund would be ample for the payments. Trustees of the sinking fund agreed to purchase the bond issue.

The estimated cost of the addition is $51,550 with the county's share approximately $28,000. The board believes the additional $8,000 can be obtained through the general fund. Under this arrangement no change would be made in the tax rate.

At the present time the county is paying approximately $800 annually for rent for offices outside the courthouse. All commissioners are in favor of the new addition to be constructed between the courthouse and the new garage building.

Need More Heating

Another angle to be worked out in connection with the new addition will be heating arrangements. The present heating plant, commissioners were informed, is not large enough to take care of the new addition. Arrangements will be worked out later on this matter.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN IN FIGHT IN COVINGTON

COVINGTON, Ky., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Robert E. Sharon, Kenton county school superintendent, was under a physician's care today at his home as a result of a fight in his office at Independence, Ky., with the man he succeeded in office.

William Vernon Mills, Covington, was at liberty under bond awaiting trial Thursday in Kenton county court on charges of assault and battery and shooting with intent to kill.

He allegedly fired a shot which Robert K. Rudd, assistant superintendent, told police missed him only because he dropped to the floor. A bullet was found embedded in a door in the office. Rudd, wielding a chair, had come to Sharon's rescue, authorities were told.

Cannonading Ceases as Grove
Is Watched

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 10.—(UP)—The Seville radio broadcast a statement at 1:40 p. m. that nationalist aviation had destroyed the Madrid gas works.

MADRID, Nov. 10.—(UP)—The battle of Madrid raged dramatically, audible but invisible, in the dense wooded groves of the Casa Del Campo today.

The population, after almost 24 hours of shelling and bombardment in which scores were killed and about 200 wounded, tensely awaited the outcome.

In the southwestern, southern and eastern part of the city, in ominous silence prevailed. The cannonading had ceased and the enemy apparently was forming his lines for the final assault.

The silence was broken once during the morning by the shattering roar of three bombs dropped by two rebel planes on Delicias drive on the southern edge of the city.

Casa Del Campo is on the west, almost opposite the center of the city, across the Manzanares river.

Government Holds Buildings

A United Press correspondent made his way at 12:15 p. m. to Segovia bridge, which crosses the river beyond Puerta Del Sol and the cathedral and royal palace. It still was in government hands, as was Puerta Del Angel, a few hundred yards up the road.

There was no fighting there but the constant clack of machine gun and rifle fire could be heard from the Casa Del Campo, just across the river.

It was impossible to see what was happening inside the huge park, hidden from view by a thick belt of trees.

Ten minutes later, the correspondent visited the Toledo bridge, farther down the river towards the southern end of the city. It was also in government hands and trams were running almost to the (Continued on Page Eight)

EITHER YOUR MOTOR STARTS...OR STANDARD OIL PAYS YOUR STARTING BILL! NOTHING EXTRA TO BUY! NO PREMIUMS TO PAY!

NOW, to a record of past achievement, Standard Oil adds the ultimate assurance of your satisfaction—winter starting actually guaranteed, and no strings attached!

Hundreds of thousands of SOHIO customers know how well justified we are in making such a remarkable offer. Last winter Standard Oil products, constantly matched to Ohio's fast-changing weather, won an all-time high record of performance in the worst winter of a generation.

Bring Your Car Up to Standard this winter—keep it there—and we'll guarantee that you'll always have sure-fire drive-away starting power from your motor, come blizzards or sub-zero. Otherwise, call your favorite garage and send us the bill. The guarantee gives you absolute protection any time the motor won't start. Of course accidents, mechanical breakdowns or snowdrifts are beyond our control.

You Buy Nothing Extra—You Pay No Premium. Any car of sound health is eligible, regardless of vintage, make or model.

Standard-ize for winter .. AND GET GUARANTEED STARTING!

PROTECT YOUR CAR ON THESE VITAL POINTS AND WE GUARANTEE STARTING!

Winter starting requires more than just the selection of a good gasoline or motor oil. Fast team-play action is required on all four of the following items. Failure of any link in the chain causes trouble. That's why "STANDARD-IZE" service on each of the following points is a necessary requirement for our STARTING GUARANTEE:

1 FULLY CHARGED BATTERY. In zero weather any battery loses two-thirds of its power—just when energy is most needed. So we check your battery every two weeks. Your battery must test at least 1.250 at the time we issue your STARTING GUARANTEE, and must be maintained at that minimum reading.

2 FAST STARTING GASOLINE. We then require your exclusive use of either SOHIO X-70 or SOHIO ETHYL. They have high test qualities that step-up their quick starting power for winter.

3 Free Flowing MOTOR OIL. We drain the crankcase completely. Then follow your own car-maker's recommendations and use the correct 20-W or 10-W winter grade motor oil—any Standard brand you prefer. SOHIO'S special winter oils make starting two to four times easier.

4 Free Action WINTER GEAR OILS. We drain your transmission and differential and refill with SOHIO'S Free Action Winter Gear Oil. It flows freely even in zero weather thus freeing the starting motor from "drag." Gear shifting is made easier.

M'GRADY THINKS MARITIME WAR TO CLOSE SOON

Renewal of Conferences Scheduled Tuesday on West Coast

COURT ORDER DELAYED

Possible Trouble Averted by Careful Acting

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10 — (UP) — Edward F. McGrady, federal conciliator, was confident today he could bring shipowners and union leaders together in a renewal of conferences looking toward settlement of the paralyzing west coast maritime strike. He planned to meet with the groups individually and induce them to resume deliberations which they refused to attend yesterday. He spent yesterday and last night in mysterious trips from his headquarters in an attempt, it was believed, to get the leaders into a conference.

McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, worked without the formal consent of either side in proposing the meeting of shipowners and union leaders who have forced 178 ships into idleness on the Pacific coast.

He was optimistic because: 1. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings directed postponement of a federal court order at San Pedro giving a United States marshal authority to unload a cargo of bananas.

2. No attempts had been made at San Francisco, Seattle or Portland to unload perishables although strike committees there had given permission, thus averting any possible trouble.

3. Unions announced willingness for the Honolulu strike committee to clear American-bound ships which were halted when the walkout was called Oct. 29.

The San Pedro situation had been the most tense on the Pacific coast waterfront. With its alleviation McGrady renewed his efforts to bring the disputants together. Strikers there had voted not to move any cargo. It was understood that they may reconsider and permit discharge of perishables which were enroute before the strike was called in view of similar action taken by the strike committees of San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

F.D.R. TO OPEN BIGGEST BRIDGE, PUSHING BUTTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10 — (UP)—The $77,000,000 San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge, largest vehicular span in the world, will open Thursday with elaborate ceremonies climaxing a four-day celebration. President Franklin Roosevelt will press a button in his White House office at 12:30 p. m., lighting two green lamps on the bridge and officially throwing the eight and one-fourth mile long span open to traffic which for more than 60 years has crossed San Francisco bay on ferries.

The opening will mark the culmination of more than 30 years of visualization and planning by engineers and San Francisco civic leaders.

The bridge was built largely with Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds. Construction began July 19, 1933 at ground-breaking ceremonies in which former President Herbert Hoover participated and continued without interruption until this week.

Except for a tunnel passage through Yerba Buena island in mid-bay, the bridge is entirely over water.

Details of Security Act Discussed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(UP)—Here is a question-and-answer explanation of the old age pension phase of the Social Security program:
Q. Am I eligible for the plan?
A. Yes, unless you are 65 years old now or fall into one of the following excluded groups:
Persons are not eligible for benefits if they are agricultural laborers, in domestic service in a private home, a sailor, work for the federal or a state government, are employees of a non-profit organization such as a community chest or educational foundation.
In addition, to qualify a worker must have been employed sometime in five different years after Dec. 31, 1936, and earned a total of not less than $2,000.

Q. When does the government start paying pensions?
A. On and after Jan. 1, 1942.
Q. What must I do to get one?
A. If you are eligible, the government will start deducting one per cent of your weekly pay next Jan. 1, 1937, and gradually increasing the levy until it reaches three per cent in 1949.

Q. Does anyone else pay on my pension?
A. Yes. Your employer pays the government the same tax as you do on the money he pays you.
Q. How much money do I receive each month from the government?
A. That depends on the amount you earn between Jan. 1, next year and when you reach the age of 65.

Q. How do I figure out what my pension will be?
A. Add up all the wages you will earn after Dec. 31, 1936. Do not include any money received for employment in excluded fields. If you will receive more than $3,000 in wages from any one employer in one year, do not include the amount above $3,000.

Q. With that done, what is the next step?
A. If your total wages are less than $2,000 you get no pension. If your total wages are $2,000 but not more than $3,000 your monthly benefits will equal 1/2 per cent of your total wages.

If your total wages are more than $3,000, your monthly benefits will equal 1/2 per cent of the first $3,000 plus 1-12 per cent of any amount over $3,000 up to total wages of $45,000.

Q. What is the object of these old age payments?

UNION'S FUNDS GONE, OFFICIAL INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(UP)—Accountants, working under authority of a Supreme Court order, began inspection today of the books kept by David E. Grange, Vice president of the International Seaman's Union, charged with dissipating $143,000 union funds.
Grange, first person to be arrested in the insurgent seamen's strike that has tied up New York shipping, was at liberty in $500 bail on a charge of threatening a strike picket with a pistol. He will be given a hearing Monday.
Meanwhile two more Ocean liners, the President Harding of the United States lines, and the Pennsylvania of the Panama Pacific lines, both operated by the International Mercantile marine, joined 68 ships put out of operation here by the strike.

FINDLAY MUST ACT TO CORRECT SEWAGE SYSTEM

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 10—(UP)—The city of Findlay was ordered today by State Health Director Walter H. Hartung to proceed immediately with an improvement program of adequate sewage treatment to correct pollution of the Blanchard river.
The health department first ordered an addition to the treatment plant on April 19, 1917. Time extensions were granted several times.
The city built a preliminary treatment plant in 1932. Although the plant has been approved as a sedimentation plant, a state analysis showed insufficient sewage modification. According to Dr. Hartung.
The city may submit a bond issue to voters proposing an addition to the treatment plant.
Residents living near the Blanchard, a complacent stream immortalized in Tell Taylor's song "Down by the Old Mill Stream," have complained in recent years that odors from the river have made life for them almost miserable. Last summer, pollution of the river became a civic issue.

IDAHO FARM SCENE

Neighbors Follow Tracks Through Field

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 10 — (UP) — Adolf Zeltitz, 39, awaited arraignment on murder charges today for the slaying of his three children who he allegedly shot and left in their burning farm home because their mother was sick and could not take care of them.
Sheriff F. L. Davis said Zeltitz confessed after neighbors had tracked him across fields to Ruppert where he was arrested.
The bodies of Ruby, 5, Gertrude, 4, and Don, 2, were found late yesterday in the ruins of the farmhouse 16 miles from here.
Davis said Zeltitz admitted shooting the children, locking them in the house, pouring a bucket of gasoline over the floor and setting fire to it. He leaped through a window and fled.

Shot Through Head
"I don't want to say I didn't torture them," the sheriff quoted Zeltitz as saying. "But I did shoot them. I shot them through the forehead."

He explained, according to officers, that his wife was sick and unable to care for the children and that he had quarrelled with her about them.

"I was farming two farms and couldn't take care of them," he allegedly told Davis. "And then we had a couple of quarrels and

Mrs. Zeltitz was in a hospital here undergoing treatment preparatory to an operation when relatives brought word of her children's death and her husband's arrest.
P. A. Anderson, Power county prosecutor, said Zeltitz would be arraigned in district court probably today. He waived preliminary hearing when arraigned in probate court late yesterday.

CITY'S SCHOOLS MAY BE CLOSED BY LOW FUNDS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10—(UP)—Cincinnati's public schools may be forced to close for several weeks because of lack of operating funds, school board members said today.

Faculties of two high schools urged closing the schools rather than reducing teachers' salaries.

John M. Renner, schools' finance committee chairman, suggested 49 days be cut from the school year. This, he said, would mean a saving of $25,000 a day on salaries and a saving of $30,000 for the period on fuel, light and other costs.

The board will discuss the matter further at a meeting on Nov. 18.

A 2-mill tax levy for school operation was defeated at last week's election.

SUIT DEMANDS $34,278 FROM OHIO BANKER

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10 — (UP)—Suit against Charles E. Wheland, president of the closed union bank of Uhrichsville, and his former wife, Emily Brown Wheland, Cleveland, to foreclose a mortgage on Wheland's state theatre building, Uhrichsville, was filed in common pleas court by Charles Schwendiman, Gnadenhutten banker. Schwendiman seeks to collect a $34,278.68 balance allegedly due on a $42,000 note.

SENATE DROPS OHIO INQUIRY OF COERCION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(UP)—The senate committee investigating campaign expenditures today dropped its inquiry into charges that voters in Ohio were subjected to coercion by industrial employers.

The action followed receipts of reports from Louis R. Glavis, chief committee investigator, that evidence was insufficient to justify further consideration. Before election the committee had ordered investigation into a complaint that employees of the Timken Roller

LUNATIC FRINGE LIQUIDATED
IN our less sophisticated moments, some time during the earlier stages of the campaign, most of us viewed with varying degrees of anxiety the numerous radical movements initiated by rather frenzied leaders, all possessing their distinctive talents, who made fanciful promises at great random.

What would be their influence upon the mind of the nation? Would they lead large numbers into strange pastures? Would they cause eventually the disintegration of the major parties? Would their agitations and their wild beating of the wind lead to the adoption of some alien form of government?

All doubts have been resolved and all questions answered by the outcome of the election. Like the first faint fall of snow under the warm rays of a November sun, the strange political faiths and ideals, and the men who espoused them, have disappeared and soon will be forgotten.

Three months ago Father Coughlin made his rash promise to discontinue radio broadcasting "if I do not swing at least 9,000,000 votes to Lemke." The American people will expect from him nothing less than a literal fulfillment of the pledge and will list this boon as one of the more important gifts of a benign Providence.

The world will be a better place once the air is cleared of his raucous voice, breathing fire against the "international bankers," the "prostituted press" and the innumerable individuals and organizations that come within the broad scope of his displeasure.

In the cold gray dawn of the morning after, Dr. Townsend, with his bigger and bigger pensions; Mr. Lemke, with his lavish promises to the farmers; Gerald Smith, with his pledge of a redistribution of wealth; Earl Browder and his Marxian ideals all seem like the creatures of a nightmare.

NIGHT BICYCLE RIDING

KILLED on the public highways last year in collision with automobiles were 350 bicyclists. There were 13,000 injured, according to National Safety Council figures. Most of the victims were youngsters. And a major cause of the accidents was pedaling along the streets without lights.

This is something for police, parents and motorists to take seriously to heart. Unless they do, such fatalities are certain to increase. For the wheel is rapidly recovering its old popularity, a million new ones are estimated for this year, and the average young bicyclist is heedless.

At this season the danger is greater than any other time of the year. For it is after school that boys and girls will be found in greater number astride their wheels. Before they turn homeward darkness has come and other traffic is just at its peak.

HOOVER GOOD FORECASTER

WASHINGTON—The President was a bad guesser on his own electoral total. He reckoned on 360, got 523. But his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, was accurate; in fact, hit the nail squarely on the head.

It is no secret that Hoover and Landon were completely on the outs during the campaign. But how bitter the ex-leader of the Republican Party felt toward his successor did not leak outside the inner circle. After their meeting in Topeka, Hoover complained that all Landon talked to him about was whether he could carry California. He asked no advice about the national situation.

Later, it became obvious that Landon and his campaign managers did not want Hoover to speak. They offered him few facilities, humiliated him on several occasions, in Philadelphia made no effort to find him a hall.

So Hoover's friends advised him to let the Republican candidate paddle his own canoe. But the ex-President felt that he owed his services to the party.

At the very end of the campaign, however, his feelings got the better of him. A friend was predicting that Landon had a chance of being elected.

"Listen," replied Hoover, "he won't carry but two states—Vermont and Maine—and any Republican dog could carry them."

ROOSEVELT WELCOME

Scene: Washington Union Station during President Roosevelt's triumphant re-election arrival.

Right up in front, and first to welcome him was Secretary of Commerce Roper, Secretary of War Woodring, and Secretary of Labor Perkins—all of them most likely to lose their jobs.

Loitering carelessly in the background was Secretary of Agriculture Wallace—sure to keep his.

After this greeting, the Little Cabinet Members (assistant secretaries) stepped up, one by one held out their hands, beamed. "Congratulations, Mr. President," they chorused, all anxious for promotion.

Automatically Roosevelt shook hands, obviously bored.

Then up stepped a group of little girls, aged six to ten, a little shy and holding big bunches of flowers. For the first time the President looked really pleased, gave them a genuine reception.

NOTE—Roosevelt's homecoming reception was inspired by Eugene Meyer, ex-governor of the Federal Reserve Board, now publisher of the bitterly critical Washington Post.

POOR MATH

The estimates of Emil Hurja, mathematical wizard of the Democratic National Committee, was nowhere near as good as Hoover's. It was just as bad as the President's.

Hurja has been ballyhooed as the author of a miraculous method of calculating election results. Astounding stories were told of his uncanny accuracy. He was supposed to have forecast totals in the 1932 and 1934 elections to within a few hundred votes.

But 1936 proved his Waterloo. He contended it would be an extremely close race. His final prediction was a Roosevelt electoral vote of 360 and a popular plurality of 3,000,000—off 163 and 8,000,000.

Some Painless Exercises for Reducing Waist

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE SMALLEST waistline I ever saw belonged to a man in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" show. He had educated his abdominal muscles and diaphragm so that he could force all of his organs into his chest, and he practically had no circumference at the waist at all—just his spinal column and a few muscles.

Dr. Clendenning

There are some other exercises that my colleague, Dr. William Brady, advocates, and these are exercises in the morning in bed. Just before getting up, stretch the spine, straighten out the shoulders, kick the covers off, and rise on your heels and the back of your head. Raise your legs straight up, then bend your knees until they touch the chest wall. Lying flat on your back, do the bicycle exercise.

I do not believe that these will do all that Dr. Brady claims for them, but they have several advantages. One is that they take almost no time out of the day. The second is that they are real exercises, and the third is that being in bed you can lie back and rest after you get through with them without any extra effort.

A reader: "Is it harmful to continue eating two yeast cakes daily over a period of years?"
Answer: Probably not, but it wouldn't hurt to take a rest every now and then.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Poems That Live

THE CHILD'S WISH GRANTED
Do you remember, my sweet, absent son,
How in the soft June days forever done
You loved the heavens so warm and clear and high;
And when I lifted you, soft came your cry—
"Put me 'way up'—'way, 'way up in blue sky?"
I laughed and said I could not; set you down,
Your gray eyes wonder-filled beneath that crown
Of bright hair gladdening me as you raced by,
Another Father now, more strong than I.
Has borne you voiceless to your dear blue sky.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 43
ALIX CAREY stood at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-sixth street at 6:30 in the evening. She shivered in her fur coat and hunched her thin shoulders against the icy wind that swept up the avenue.
She peered anxiously down the thoroughfares hoping to sight a bus, was jostled by the crowd and felt angry, tired tears rise to her eyes.
She blinked them back, blew her nose into a crumpled handkerchief and pushed her hair under her hat when the bus approached.
She knew it would take more than that to restore her to any semblance of pleasant company that night. And she had to be pleasant company if it killed her.
Alix had invited Genevieve Gleason to dine with her. She could neither afford it nor did she desire it. Her wages were $15 a week and what spare time she had was time to be spent flat on her back nursing the ache in her legs, unaccustomed to standing all day long and burning with the pain of it.
But Genevieve Gleason was the receptionist at the Sayre-Coulton Advertising agency. If there was anything to know about the agency, Genevieve would know it.
She had not been a friend of Alix's when Alix was a secretary or later a minor executive in the agency but in these last few weeks Alix had gone about systematically to make her one.
She had dropped into the agency one day, stopping very casually at the reception desk, "I thought I might catch Mr. Kennelly in. I wanted to ask him a question. Is he, do you know?"
Genevieve said she'd see and Alix waited, knowing very well that she had seen him leave the building 10 minutes before and so timed her entrance.
"I'm sorry, Miss Carey, he doesn't seem to be in. Want to leave a message?"
"No, thank you. I'll stop by again. By the way, do you mind if I make a personal remark? I love that blouse you're wearing. Did you have it made?"
"This one?" Genevieve was pleased. "No, I got it up in a little shop on Madison avenue."
"I never have any luck with little shops. I can't ever find them or something."
"I'll be glad to show it to you. Perhaps I could have lunch with you some day?"
Alix looked very pleased, "Would you really? Then I'll give you a ring soon. Oh... what's the news about Mr. Sayre? How is he doing?"
"I can't tell you really"—this was a month after the accident—"but Mr. Coulton sees him all the time. He always just says that he's getting along fine. Says he's mending nicely. Isn't it terrible?—and he's so attractive."
"Yes, he was awfully nice," Alix said. "Well, I've got to be getting along. I'll give you a ring about that luncheon."
That was the way that she laid her plans to find some way of hearing about John Sayre.
Lunching with Genevieve was impossible. Alix had too little time and she didn't want anyone in the Sayre-Coulton agency to know where she was working, that she was a salesgirl at a glove counter.
"Hello," she said on the telephone a few days before Christmas, "this is Alix Carey. I'm terribly sorry I haven't had a chance to lunch with you. I've been over my head in work. I wonder if you'd have time one of these nights to have a bite of dinner with me. I'd like to see you again and hear about the agency, and I thought you might point out that shop to me."
That was why she boarded a Fifth avenue bus on a bitter cold night in December. Usually she walked the distance to the Y building to save carfare. Tonight she was too tired to walk to her meeting place with Genevieve.
Nevertheless she was bright and animated—at whatever cost—while they ate their dinner and lingered over their coffee. She talked to the other girl about Christmas gifts and clothes and all manner of things while she held in check the one subject she wanted to know about.
At last she said, "You know Mr. Sayre was awfully kind to me when I was at the agency. I've thought of him often and how sad it is that he is still ill with the holidays coming on."
"He must be getting better," Genevieve said. "His secretary sends his mail out every day and his business is going on."
"Oh, then he's home?" Alix was careful to keep her tone casual.
"No, he isn't. Nobody knows where he is except Mr. Coulton. That's why, if you should ask me, I think there's something peculiar about it. But you know the one I'm not so sorry for?"
"No," Alix said, hoping Genevieve would go on talking about John.
"That dame."
"Dame?"
"La Cushing. I guess you never saw her..."
Never saw her? Would to heaven she never had! There was nothing on Alix's face but mild interest.
"Oh, Carol Cushing, her name was. She was cracked up the same time as Mr. Sayre. She was kind of a cousin or something of his. Anyway she used to come around the office as if she were there. He always just says that finding it difficult to make a living at his trade of automobile washing, when the call came for extras for the big spectacle. The Sneads include three sets of twins and three boys, the oldest being 10. All the children got jobs, the total amount of their earnings during the filming being $520."
AT THE CIRCLE
They had to teach Clark Gable how to drive a horse and buggy for his love scenes with Jeanette MacDonald in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "San Francisco," now playing at the Circle theatre. Gable, he admitted, had never before driven any kind of a vehicle but an automobile, which he usually took over the highways at 90 miles an hour.

Paul Gallico's top-notch Saturday Evening Post story of the romance of a couple of harum-scarum Chicago newspaper reporters is brought to the screen as a hilarious comedy-romance in "Wedding Present," the Joan Bennett-Cary Grant film, which opened yesterday at the Cliftona theatre. A strong supporting cast, headed by George Bancroft and Conrad Nagel and including Gene Lockhart, Inez Courtney, Edward Brophy and Daman Ford, does its part in keeping the yarn rolling at top speed.
"Wedding Present" introduces the stars as ace newshawks of a Chicago daily, constantly about to be fired for their stunts and just as constantly making City Editor Bancroft relent, by turning in a front-page scoop. They spend a night going the rounds with a visiting Archduke—and send the Archduke back to the office with the big story of the day. KILLED on the public highways last year in collision with automobiles were 350 bicyclists. There were 13,000 injured, according to National Safety Council figures. Most of the victims were youngsters. And a major cause of the accidents was pedaling along the streets without lights.

This is something for police, parents and motorists to take seriously to heart. Unless they do, such fatalities are certain to increase. For the wheel is rapidly recovering its old popularity, a million new ones are estimated for this year, and the average young bicyclist is heedless.

At this season the danger is greater than any other time of the year. For it is after school that boys and girls will be found in greater number astride their wheels. Before they turn homeward darkness has come and other traffic is just at its peak.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up hoping to see the sun, but it remains a deserter, and the house being of that damp, cold early morning temperature did soon hurry away, driving cautiously and finally finding the postoffice in the fog. There, nothing of vast importance, though a great bundle of mail, much of which found its way unopened into the waste basket. Wonder how many millions of dollars are thrown away each year on mail that is not wanted and never is opened? My quota for this one day amounted to 76 cents. And me just one of millions engaged in business one way or another.

Out and about the ville, bowing in fine friendliness to Charles May, the barrister; Clark Will, the banker; Karl Mason of the big furniture store; T. K. Brunner, the jeweler; Harry Weill, the ex-journalist who is a fine news tipster, but who had nothing new on this day; Press Enderlin, who sells coal and guesses wrong on elections. Everywhere increasing signs of the approach of the Christmas season.

Here comes Bob Brehmer with information that the Rifle club will meet Thursday evening and arrange for matches. In the afternoon heeded the call of business down Chillicothe way, so at the Ross county capital did visit Publisher Hunter and inspected his fine newspaper plant. Very proud he is of his paper and with reason, too. Found much of interest in his engraving plant, operated by a promising man who worked for this scrivener several years

WASHINGTON—The President was a bad guesser on his own electoral total. He reckoned on 360, got 523. But his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, was accurate; in fact, hit the nail squarely on the head.

It is no secret that Hoover and Landon were completely on the outs during the campaign. But how bitter the ex-leader of the Republican Party felt toward his successor did not leak outside the inner circle.

After their meeting in Topeka, Hoover complained that all Landon talked to him about was whether he could carry California. He asked no advice about the national situation.

Later, it became obvious that Landon and his campaign managers did not want Hoover to speak. They offered him few facilities, humiliated him on several occasions, in Philadelphia made no effort to find him a hall.

So Hoover's friends advised him to let the Republican candidate paddle his own canoe. But the ex-President felt that he owed his services to the party.

At the very end of the campaign, however, his feelings got the better of him. A friend was predicting that Landon had a chance of being elected.

"Listen," replied Hoover, "he won't carry but two states—Vermont and Maine—and any Republican dog could carry them."

ROOSEVELT WELCOME

Scene: Washington Union Station during President Roosevelt's triumphant reelection arrival.

Right up in front, and first to welcome him was Secretary of Commerce Roper, Secretary of War Woodring, and Secretary of Labor Perkins—all of them most likely to lose their jobs.

Loitering carelessly in the background was Secretary of Agriculture Wallace—sure to keep his.

After this greeting, the Little Cabinet Members (assistant secretaries) stepped up, one by one held out their hands, beamed. "Congratulations, Mr. President," they chorused, all anxious for promotion.

Automatically Roosevelt shook hands, obviously bored.

Then up stepped a group of little girls, aged six to ten, a little shy and holding big bunches of flowers. For the first time the President looked really pleased, gave them a genuine reception.

NOTE—Roosevelt's homecoming reception was inspired by Eugene Meyer, ex-governor of the Federal Reserve Board, now publisher of the bitterly critical Washington Post.

POOR MATH

The estimates of Emil Hurja, mathematical wizard of the Democratic National Committee, was nowhere near as good as Hoover's. It was just as bad as the President's.

Hurja has been ballyhooed as the author of a miraculous method of calculating election results. Astounding stories were told of his uncanny accuracy. He was supposed to have forecast totals in the 1932 and 1934 elections to within a few hundred votes.

But 1936 proved his Waterloo. He contended it would be an extremely close race. His final prediction was a Roosevelt electoral vote of 360 and a popular plurality of 3,000,000—off 163 and 8,000,000.

Some Painless Exercises for Reducing Waist

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE SMALLEST waistline I ever saw belonged to a man in Ripley's "Believe It or Not" show. He had educated his abdominal muscles and diaphragm so that he could force all of his organs into his chest, and he practically had no circumference at the waist at all—just his spinal column and a few muscles.

Dr. Clendening

In his little book, "Exercise Without Exercises," to improve your waistline without any specially designed exercises. Simply while you are sitting at your desk or reading the newspaper in a chair, contract your abdominal muscles so that there is a ripple that goes around clockwise and then counter-clockwise. This exercises both your abdominal muscles and the diaphragm. Then practice moving the abdominal muscles so that they ripple from above downward, and from the bottom upward. Practice expanding the waist at the sides without protruding the abdomen in front. While standing or sitting, practice elongating your spine.

May Not Reduce

I do not know that these will certainly reduce your waistline, as I am a little skeptical of exercises reducing the waistline unless accompanied by dieting, but at least they will give you exercise without the laborious necessity of lying down on your back on the bedroom floor and raising your feet 20 times, etc.

I go all the way with Mr. Devar in advocating these casual exercises, for the principal reason that the daily dozens are not carried out, no matter how enthusiastically begun.

There are some other exercises that my colleague, Dr. William Brady, advocates, and these are exercises in the morning in bed. Just before getting up, stretch the spine, straighten out the shoulders, kick the covers off, and rise on your heels and the back of your head. Raise your legs straight up, then bend your knees until they touch the chest wall. Lying flat on your back, do the bicycle exercise.

A reader: "Is it harmful to continue eating two yeast cakes daily over a period of years?"

Answer: Probably not, but it wouldn't hurt to take a rest every now and then.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Poems That Live

THE CHILD'S WISH GRANTED

Do you remember, my sweet, absent son,
How in the soft June days forever done
You loved the heavens so warm and clear and high;
And when I lifted you, soft came your cry—
"Put me 'way up—'way, 'way up in blue sky?"
I laughed and said I could not; set you down,
Your gray eyes wonder-filled beneath that crown
Of bright hair gladdening me as you raced by,
Another Father now, more strong than I,
Has borne you voiceless to your dear blue sky.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 43
ALIX CAREY stood at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-Sixth street at 6:30 in the evening. She shivered in her fur coat and hunched her thin shoulders against the icy wind that swept up the avenue.

She peered anxiously down the thoroughfares hoping to sight a bus, was jostled by the crowd and felt angry, tired tears rise to her eyes.

She blinked them back, blew her nose into a crumpled handkerchief and pushed her hair under her hat when the bus approached.

She knew it would take more than that to restore her to any semblance of pleasant company that night. And she had to be pleasant company if it killed her. Alix had invited Genevieve Gleason to dine with her. She could neither afford it nor did she desire it. Her wages were $15 a week and what spare time she had was time to be spent flat on her back nursing the ache in her legs, unaccustomed to standing all day long and burning with the pain of it.

But Genevieve Gleason was the receptionist at the Sayre-Coulton Advertising agency. If there was anything to know about the agency, Genevieve would know it. She had not been a friend of Alix's when Alix was a secretary or later a minor executive in the agency but in these last few weeks Alix had gone about systematically to make her one.

She had dropped into the agency one day, stopping very casually at the reception desk, "I thought I might catch Mr. Kennelly in. I wanted to ask him a question. Is he, do you know?"

Genevieve said she'd see and Alix waited, knowing very well that she had seen him leave the building 10 minutes before and so timed her entrance.

"I'm sorry, Miss Carey, he doesn't seem to be in. Want to leave a message?"

"No, thank you. I'll stop by again. By the way, do you mind if I make a personal remark? I love that blouse you're wearing. Did you have it made?"

"This one?" Genevieve was pleased. "No, I got it up in a little shop on Madison avenue."

"I never have any luck with little shops. I can't ever find them or something."

"I'll be glad to show it to you. Perhaps I could have lunch with you some day?"

Alix looked very pleased, "Would you really? Then I'll give you a ring soon. Oh... what's the news about Mr. Sayre? How is he doing?"

"I can't tell you really"—this was a month after the accident—"but Mr. Coulton sees him all the time. He always just says that he's getting along fine. Says he's mending nicely. Isn't it terrible?—and he's so attractive."

"Yes, he was awfully nice," Alix said. "Well, I've got to be getting along. I'll give you a ring about that luncheon."

That was the way that she laid her plans to find some way of hearing about John Sayre. Lunching with Genevieve was impossible. Alix had too little time and she didn't want anyone in the Sayre-Coulton agency to know where she was working, that she was a salesgirl at a glove counter.

"Hello," she said on the telephone a few days before Christmas, "this is Alix Carey. I'm terribly sorry I haven't had a chance to lunch with you. I've been over my head in work. I wonder if you'd have time one of these nights to have a bite of dinner with me. I'd like to see you again and hear about the agency, and I thought you might point out that shop to me."

That was why she boarded a Fifth avenue bus on a bitter cold night in December. Usually she walked the distance to the Y building to save carfare. Tonight she was too tired to walk to her meeting place with Genevieve.

Nevertheless she was bright and animated—at whatever cost while they ate their dinner and lingered over their coffee. She talked to the other girl about Christmas gifts and clothes and all manner of things while she held in check the one subject she wanted to know about.

At last she said, "You know Mr. Sayre was awfully kind to me when I was at the agency. I've thought of him often and how sad it is that he is still ill with the holidays coming on."

"He must be getting better," Genevieve said. "His secretary sends his mail out every day and his business is going on."

"Oh, then he's home?" Alix was careful to keep her tone casual.

"No, he isn't. Nobody knows where he is except Mr. Coulton. That's why, if you should ask me, I think there's something peculiar about it. But you know the one I'm not so sorry for?"

"No," Alix said, hoping Genevieve would go on talking about John.

"That dame."

"Dame?"

"La Cushing. I guess you never saw her."

Never saw her? Would to heaven she never had! There was nothing on Alix's face but mild interest.

"... Carolia Cushing, her name was. She was cracked up the same time as Mr. Sayre. She was kind of a cousin or something of his. Anyway she used to come around the office as if she were Miss New York and was she a pain in the neck! I used to keep her waiting 20 minutes. I'd say Mr. Sayre's line was busy."

Alix warned to Genevieve. "Didn't I read somewhere that she was engaged to him?" Alix tried to be subtle.

"Who? To Sayre?"

"I... maybe it was a mistake..." Alix retreated.

"I never saw anything like that. Listen, you can't keep a thing like that quiet around the agency. Everybody there knew every girl he went with."

"Oh, is that so?" Alix thought and kept silent.

"I read in a movie magazine that Cushing and this Spaniard, who was also cracked up, were going to elope to Yuma."

"Yuma is a long way from here. It seems strange that they'd go to Yuma from Los Angeles by way of Albany," Alix said drily.

"Yeah. I guess you're right."

"Were they all on a pleasure trip?" Alix threw in her last question.

"I don't know about all of them but you know our agency has the Mutual Picture company's trade advertising. It's a big account and Mr. Sayre had to go out to the coast a couple of times a year. He usually flew out with this man who owned the plane. And if you ask me, that's how the Cushing gal got her picture job."

Alix didn't want to ask her anything else. She had learned plenty. Her dinner companion had earned the dinner she wouldn't let Alix pay for.

"Size six and one-half in white doeskin? Yes, Madam. I'm sorry but these are the only ones we have without buttons. I can show you the yellow doeskin..."

Doeskin. Kid. Antelope. Fabric. Hand-stitched. Ruffled cuffs. Gauntlet models. From nine to six you'd think Alix Carey would have enough to do thinking of them. And so she had while another thing that was half gladness and half sorrow remained in her mind. Gladness because John Sayre had had another reason for going to California than to take Carolia Cushing there; sorrow, because she knew that he was ill and knew not where.

"I'm sure, Madam, that they will wash. They're guaranteed. Just one minute, please... I'll wait on you," Alix looked up from her book to the woman who thrust a pair of gloves near her.

The two girls—one behind the counter, the other a customer—stared at each other for a second. Then:

"Kathleen..."

"Alix..."

"Oh, but Kathleen..."

"Alix, we've got to talk! What time are you through?"

"Six-fifteen. At the Thirty-Seventh street employes' entrance."

AT THE CLIFTONA

Paul Gallico's top-notch Saturday Evening Post story of the romance of a couple of harum-scarum Chicago newspaper reporters is brought to the screen as a hilarious comedy-romance in "Wedding Present," the Joan Bennett-Cary film, which opened yesterday at the Cliftona theatre. A strong supporting cast, headed by George Bancroft and Conrad Nagel and including Gene Lockhart, Inez Courtney, Edward Brophy and Daman Ford, does its part in keeping the yarn rolling at top speed.

"Wedding Present" introduces the stars as ace newshawks of a Chicago daily, constantly about to be fired for their stunts and just as constantly making City Editor Bancroft relent, by turning in a front-page scoop. They spend a night going the rounds with a visiting Archduke and send the Archduke back to the office with the big story of the day. They have an escapade in an airplane and turn in another banner story.

RAIL TANK CARS VULCANIZED BY GIANT MACHINE

AKRON, O. (UP)—The vulcanizer—once a gadget that signified to every motorist only a sulphurous stench and a struggle with an inner tube by the roadside—has grown to a 90-ton machine that is large enough to hold a standard railroad tank car.

The modern offspring of the old patching kit is 53 feet long and 15 feet in diameter. Developing new scientific techniques for handling a problem of such magnitude, engineers of The B. F. Goodrich Company designed the vulcanizer to speed up the lining of tank cars with rubber for the transportation of chemicals and other liquids.

With a capacity of 65,000 gallons, the unit is the largest in the world. It is constructed of inch-thick steel, and the door alone weighs 15 tons.

Installation of the huge vulcanizer was begun only after a special 16-wheel rig was built to transport it from the factory where it was constructed. Three tractors were used to pull the machine.

HOSKINS FACES GILL IN SEMI; WATSON GRUNTS

Local Youths to Battle in 4-round Prelim

Charlie Baxter and Bobbie Cooper, two highly-reputed disciples of the realm of fistiana, will cap the first boxing-wrestling card on the Circleville Athletic Club's winter series of cards next Monday at 8:30 p. m.

The semi-windup promises a lot more action when Bud Hoskins, middleweight amateur champion of Columbus, tangles with Tommy Gill, also of the capital city.

There will be a 4-round preliminary between two local boys.

Watson to Grapple The wrestling match will bring Eddie Watson, pride of the Contender corporation, into the ring. His opponent has not been named.

Some Circleville fans will remember Charlie Baxter as the lad, hailing from Columbus then, who tucked away Joe Jewel on the Danny Raeburn-Eddie Klusman card in the C. A. C. gym eight years ago. Baxter later moved to Pittsburgh and did well there, decisions over Danny Delmont, Joe Estrada, draw with Johnny Carpenter, kayo over Frankie Buff, Jackie Hoster and Tiger Walker being claimed for him. He has fought some of the topnotchers in his class, Johnny Datto and Louie DeArco being included.

Cooper, his opponent, is known as "The Akron Assassin" as a result of his tactics and powerful punch. He has won 16 out of his last 22 fights, the C.A.C. fight managers announce. He holds the edge over Mickey Dugan, Jimmy Evans and many others.

Fight After Decision

Hoskins' claim to the middleweight title of Columbus is disputed by Gill, who fought a draw with him several weeks ago. After the judges decided the scrap was even, the boys mixed again in the dressing room. Hoskins is a former Golden Glove champion in Columbus and held the middleweight title in the Fourth regiment marines while serving in Shanghai.

One hundred reserved seats are being placed on sale in the Mykrantz drug store, Betz restaurant, Mecca restaurant, and Palace restaurant.

IRISH, ARMY TO PROVIDE THRILL FOR NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(UP)—New York plays host this Saturday to the eastern football season's most colorful classic, Notre Dame vs. Army, the banner tilt of 269 games on the week-end gridiron program.

The battle, because of its color and tradition, will attract some 80,000 fans to Yankee stadium despite its lack of national significance. Army was trounced by Colgate and the Ramblers fell before Pitt and Navy.

Twenty-eight games are on the Armistice Day card tomorrow, but the only one worthy of national interest is the intersectional between Texas A. and M. and San Francisco University at San Francisco.

All American Roll Call

Ambrose Schindler Southern California

AS ONE writer put it, if Davis, the Pacific Coast's leading candidate for All-American honors, is any better than Ambrose Schindler, a teammate of Southern California, "he must be a ringtailed wonder."

Assuming Davis isn't that, Schindler ranks high as a candidate himself. Schindler, only a sophomore, is one of those sensational stars that pop up out of nowhere to draw the grid spotlight each year.

A hard-running back, weighing 175 pounds, Schindler stood out particularly this year in the Stanford game when he ripped the Indians' line to shreds. Schindler comes from San Diego.

LEWIS TO SEEK RING BOUT WITH JIM BRADDOCK

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis of Los Angeles, will follow up his successful title defense against Len Harvey with a challenge to fight Jim Braddock for the heavyweight crown.

The challenge, however, will be a mere gesture because Braddock is under iron-bound contract to both Madison Square Garden and Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club to fight Max Schmeling of Germany next June in the first defense of his championship won from Maxie Baer June 13, 1935.

The New York State Athletic Commission would not favor such a meeting even if Braddock wanted to fight Lewis, and the California negro is under suspension in all national boxing association states.

Lewis had little trouble in disposing of the veteran Harvey before a capacity crowd in Wembley Pool arena last night. Harvey won only the first round. But the long, lashing blows of Lewis weakened the Britisher as the fight wore on, and he never was in danger. He stood flat-footed in the middle of the ring and belted Harvey mercilessly every time he came in range, but he never was able to knock the game Englishman down.

Lewis weighed 173½. Harvey, 172.

WALDORF EYES IRISH CONTEST NOT MICHIGAN

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Northwestern began drill for Michigan today, although Coach Lynn Waldorf indicated he was pointing more for the Notre Dame tilt the week after. Waldorf said pass defense was deficient.

SCHMIDT RECORD AT STAKE WITH ILLINOIS FACED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—(UP)—A coaching record and Ohio State's hopes of a first division berth in the Western conference will be placed on the block Saturday when the Bucks go to Champaign for their annual contest with Illinois.

Francis A. Schmidt, the moody grid tactician who came out of the southwest to take over football affairs at Ohio after the late Sam Willaman had been "scalped," is now ending his third season here and terminating his original contract.

While a victory in the final contest of the campaign against Michigan would prove the bundle which would silence most critics the Texan probably values a triumph over the Illini more if Ohio turns back Bob Zuppke's eleven Saturday. Schmidt can look back over his three seasons with the Bucks and show an edge over every Big Ten coach who has sent a team against him.

To date Ohio has played 14 Western Conference games under Schmidt and 12 of them have been victories for the Bucks.

Of the six conference foes faced over that stretch only Zuppke and the Illinois have been able to garner as much as an even break.

The Bucks and Illinois have split the two contests they have played since Schmidt took charge. In 1934, the Indians were the victor 14 to 13 and last season a great Ohio team, shell-shocked by its defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, merely went through the motions at it downed a game but outclassed Illinois combine 6 to 0.

BASEBALL CHIEF MAY DECIDE ON FELLER'S CASE

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Sale of the St. Louis Browns expected at an American league pow-wow here Thursday touched off a series of baseball moves today that may drop bombshells into both major leagues.

The sale alone was explosive enough, but with its approval may come settlement of three major side issues:

1. Decision by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis on the case of Bob (Young) Feller, Cleveland's schoolboy strikeout wonder from Van Meter, Iowa.

2. Curb on radio broadcasting of American league contests.

3. Transactions by the host of baseball figures attracted by the meeting.

After weeks of delay it was believed Judge Landis had reached a solution to the puzzling Feller case. Either way he rules—declaring bullet Bob the property of Cleveland or a free agent—All major league clubs may be concerned.

Landis' decision was said to hinge on whether Feller actually was signed by an official of the Fargo-Moorhead club of the Northern league or some other scout. Feller then was sold to New Orleans, a Cleveland farm, but retired voluntarily with a sore arm, and later was picked off Rosenblum's class a amateur team in Cleveland by the Indians. They pitched him, three innings in an exhibition game with the Cardinals July 6 and he fanned eight men. Cleveland promptly signed him.

INJURIES HURT AS MICHIGAN FACES CHAMPS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 10.—(UP)—The entire Michigan squad swung into preparations for Northwestern today.

Bob Cooper, injured back, returned to uniform, but it was doubtful if he would play Saturday. Physicians also doubted whether Capt. Matt Patanelli would recover from a sprained ankle in time for the Wildcats.

LAYDEN WORKS TO END RATING GIVEN BY NAVY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Coach Elmer Layden drilled Notre Dame stiffly in an effort to pull it out of its underdog rating with Army Saturday.

The squad returned from its 3 to 0 loss to Navy badly battered, but most of the men were expected to be in condition by Saturday.

PEZZOLI FAVORED

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Phil Pezzoli, Chicago Sophomore, may see action for Illinois at fullback against Ohio State Saturday. He advanced from a third ranking because of the loss of Jack Broady through ineffectuality and a Frank Burns because of a leg injury.

BAXTER AND COOPER TO HEADLINE ATHLETIC CLUB'S FIRST FIGHT CARD

HOSKINS FACES GILL IN SEMI; WATSON GRUNTS

Opponent Not Yet Named For Strawboard Pride For Next Monday

100 RESERVED SEATS

Local Youths to Battle in 4-round Prelim

Charlie Baxter and Bobbie Cooper, two highly-reputed disciples of the realm of fistiana, will cap the first boxing-wrestling card on the Circleville Athletic Club's winter series of cards next Monday at 8:30 p. m.

The semi-windup promises a lot more action when Bud Hoskins, middleweight amateur champion of Columbus, tangles with Tommy Gill, also of the capital city.

There will be a 4-round preliminary between two local boys.

Watson to Grapple

The wrestling match will bring Eddie Watson, pride of the Contender corporation, into the ring. His opponent has not been named.

Some Circleville fans will remember Charlie Baxter as the lad, hailing from Columbus then, who tucked away Joe Jewel on the Danny Raeburn-Eddie Klusman card in the C. A. C. gym eight years ago. Baxter later moved to Pittsburgh and did well there, decisions over Danny Delmont, Joe Estrada, draw with Johnny Carpenter, kayo over Frankie Buff, Jackie Hoster and Tiger Walker being claimed for him. He has fought some of the topnotchers in his class, Johnny Datto and Louie DeArco being included.

Cooper, his opponent, is known as "The Akron Assassin" as a result of his tactics and powerful punch. He has won 16 out of his last 22 fights, the C.A.C. fight managers announce. He holds the edge over Mickey Dugan, Jimmy Evans and many others.

Fight After Decision

Hoskins' claim to the middleweight title of Columbus is disputed by Gill, who fought a draw with him several weeks ago. After the judges decided the scrap was even, the boys mixed again in the dressing room. Hoskins is a former Golden Glove champion in Columbus and held the middleweight title in the Fourth regiment marines while serving in Shanghai.

One hundred reserved seats are being placed on sale in the Mykrantz drug store, Betz restaurant, Mecca restaurant, and Palace restaurant.

IRISH, ARMY TO PROVIDE THRILL FOR NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(UP)—New York plays host this Saturday to the eastern football season's most colorful classic, Notre Dame vs. Army, the banner tilt of 269 games on the week-end gridiron program.

The battle, because of its color and tradition, will attract some 80,000 fans to Yankee stadium despite its lack of national significance. Army was trounced by Colgate and the Ramblers fell before Pitt and Navy.

Twenty-eight games are on the Armistice Day card tomorrow, but the only one worthy of national interest is the intersectional between Texas A. and M., and San Francisco University at San Francisco.

NO SHOOTING PERMITTED NEAR FEDERAL PROJECTS

Clarence Francis, county game officer, has issued a warning to hunters that no shooting will be permitted within rifle range of federal projects during the hunting season. This regulation applies to all WPA projects and CCC camps.

All American Roll Call

Ambrose Schindler Southern California

AS ONE writer put it, if Davis, the Pacific Coast's leading candidate for All-American honors, is any better than Ambrose Schindler, a teammate of Southern California, "he must be a ringtailed wonder."

Assuming Davis isn't that, Schindler ranks high as a candidate himself, Schindler, only a sophomore, is one of those sensational stars that pop up out of nowhere to draw the grid spotlight each year.

A hard-running back, weighing 175 pounds, Schindler stood out particularly this year in the Stanford game when he ripped the Indians' line to shreds. Schindler comes from San Diego.

LEWIS TO SEEK RING BOUT WITH JIM BRADDOCK

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Light Heavyweight Champion John Henry Lewis of Los Angeles, will follow up his successful title defense against Len Harvey with a challenge to fight Jim Braddock for the heavyweight crown.

The challenge, however, will be a mere gesture because Braddock is under iron-bound contract to both Madison Square Garden and Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club to fight Max Schmeling of Germany next June in the first defense of his championship won from Max Baer June 13, 1935.

The New York State Athletic Commission would not favor such a meeting even if Braddock wanted to fight Lewis, and the California negro is under suspension in all national boxing association states.

Lewis had little trouble in disposing of the veteran Harvey before a capacity crowd in Wembley Pool arena last night. Harvey won only the first round. But the long, lashing blows of Lewis weakened the Britisher as the fight wore on, and he never was in danger. He stood flat-footed in the middle of the ring and belted Harvey mercilessly every time he came in range, but he never was able to knock the game Englishman down.

Lewis weighed 173½, Harvey, 172.

WALDORF EYES IRISH CONTEST NOT MICHIGAN

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Northwestern began drill for Michigan today, although Coach Lynn Waldorf indicated he was pointing more for the Notre Dame tilt the week after. Waldorf said pass defense was deficient.

SCHMIDT RECORD AT STAKE WITH ILLINOIS FACED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—(UP)—A coaching record and Ohio State's hopes of a first division berth in the Western conference will be placed on the block Saturday when the Bucks go to Champaign for their annual contest with Illinois.

Francis A. Schmidt, the moody grid tactician who came out of the southwest to take over football affairs at Ohio after the late Sam Willaman had been "scalped," is now ending his third season here and terminating his original contract.

While a victory in the final contest of the campaign against Michigan would prove the bundle which would silence most critics the Texan probably values a triumph over the Illini more. If Ohio turns back Bob Zupke's eleven Saturday, Schmidt can look back over his three seasons with the Bucks and show an edge over every Big Ten coach who has sent a team against him.

To date Ohio has played 14 Western Conference games under Schmidt and 12 of them have been victories for the Bucks.

Of the six conference foes faced over that stretch only Zupke and the Illinois have been able to garner as much as an even break.

The Bucks and Illinois have split the two contests they have played since Schmidt took charge. In 1934, the Indians were the victor 14 to 13 and last season a great Ohio team, shell-shocked by its defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, merely went through the motions at it downed a game but outclassed Illinois combine 6 to 0.

BASEBALL CHIEF MAY DECIDE ON FELLER'S CASE

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Sale of the St. Louis Browns expected at an American league pow-wow here Thursday touched off a series of baseball moves today that may drop bombshells into both major leagues.

The sale alone was explosive enough, but with its approval may come settlement of three major side issues:

1. Decision by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis on the case of Bob (Young) Feller, Cleveland's schoolboy strikeout wonder from Van Meter, Iowa.

2. Curb on radio broadcasting of American league contests.

3. Transactions by the host of baseball figures attracted by the meeting.

After weeks of delay it was believed Judge Landis had reached a solution to the puzzling Feller case. Either way he rules—declaring bullet Bob the property of Cleveland or a free agent—All major league clubs may be concerned. Landis' decision was said to hinge on whether Feller actually was signed by an official of the Fargo-Moorhead club of the Northern league or some other scout. Feller then was sold to New Orleans, a Cleveland farm, but retired voluntarily with a sore arm, and later was picked off Rosenblum's class a amateur team in Cleveland by the Indians. They pitched him, three innings in an exhibition game with the Cardinals July 6 and he fanned eight men. Cleveland promptly signed him.

INJURIES HURT AS MICHIGAN FACES CHAMPS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 10.—(UP)—The entire Michigan squad swung into preparations for Northwestern today.

Bob Cooper, injured back, returned to uniform, but it was doubtful if he would play Saturday. Physicians also doubted whether Capt. Matt Patanelli would recover from a sprained ankle in time for the Wildcats.

LAYDEN WORKS TO END RATING GIVEN BY NAVY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Coach Elmer Layden drilled Notre Dame stiffly in an effort to pull it out of its underdog rating with Army Saturday.

The squad returned from its 3 to 0 loss to Navy badly battered, but most of the men were expected to be in condition by Saturday.

PEZZOLI, FAVORED

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Phil Pezzoli, Chicago Sophomore, may see action for Illinois at fullback against Ohio State Saturday. He advanced from a third ranking because of the loss of Jack Broady through ineffectuality and a Frank Burns because of a leg injury.

About This And That In Many Sports

1916 Gridders Guests

Leon Friedman, a former Circleville man, son of Mrs. B. Friedman, E. Mound street, will be among the honored Ohio State graduates Nov. 21 in homecoming festivities—Friedman will come from New York to join other members of the Ohio State team of 1916—This team, one of Ohio's greatest, won seven games and lost none—On it were Chic Harley, around whom Ohio State's gridiron tradition is woven; Shifty Bolen, Dwight Peabody, Howard Courtney, Irwin Turner, Bob Karch, Charles Seddon, Fritz Holtkamp, Howard Yerges, Paul Hurm, Frank Sorenson, Richard Boesel, Harold Courtney, William Cramer, Charles Daughters, Virgil Dreyer, Earl Johnson, Roy Kirk, Harry Lapp, Arthur Leonard, Clarence McDonald, Fred Norton, Gordon Rhodes, John Sullivan and Kelly Van Dyne.

Only Three Deceased

Of the entire squad only three members are deceased—They include Fred Norton, after whom Norton Flying field was named, Harold Courtney and Kelly Van Dyne.

Suggestion Supported

Support has popped up from an unexpected spot for this column's plea that Circleville high school leave the Central Buckeye league—The support can't be named, but it might help—This column urged the school to withdraw, believing its teams will play better ball against teams other than Grandview, Bexley and Delaware.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THREE EXTRA TRICKS

IT ALWAYS is interesting, and instructive as well, to note the different contracts undertaken on particular hands. In a recent duplicate the hand shown yielded several different results. Neither side was vulnerable. East dealt. One West player bid 5-Clubs and made a small slam. Two East players bid 4-Spades and made a small slam. The majority of tables played the deal at no trumps. Top score went to an East player who bid only 3-No Trumps and made a small slam. It was the only table where play of the hand proved to be interesting. No table bid the small slam which several declarers made.

viewing defenders' discards to date, to decide how best to play the remaining six tricks. South had discarded the 8 of hearts at the sixth trick and the 3 of spades at the seventh trick. North had echoed in hearts at the fifth and sixth tricks, then let go his last diamond at the seventh trick. The six cards held by each player after seven tricks, were as shown.

At the top-score table bidding went: East, 1-No Trump; West, 2-Clubs; East, 2-No Trumps; West, 3-Diamonds; East, 3-No Trumps, which held the call. The opening lead was the 10 of diamonds, as at all tables where no trumps were played. Declarer took both of his diamond tricks. The K of clubs was where declarer wanted it to be, and five tricks were run in that suit. After which East spent some time mentally re-
